

BRODHEAD, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Mr. Sam Whitehead fell dead one day last week. He had been out hunting and came in home and sat down to eat dinner. He got up and went out to shoot a hawk. He shot at it as it flew away and he only lived a minute or two after the discharge of his gun.

—Prof. J. E. Watson and his accomplished daughter, Miss Minnie, opened their school at the Academy building Monday with a good attendance and we wish to say to all young teachers who wish to better prepare themselves for teaching, that they can not do better than patronize Bro. Watson, for he is a Christian gentleman and a fine educator.

—Mrs. Mattie Carter bought of Mr. J. W. Tate the beautiful new property on Crab Orchard street. The house is new and nicely finished and we think it is the prettiest house in town. Sister Carter is a deserving lady and is one of the teachers in our school. We are glad to know that she is so comfortably located in Brodhead and we suppose permanently.

—Mrs. Emma Cross, the postmaster at Maretsburg, was the guest of Mrs. A. J. Pike. Miss Alice Bethurum, of the same place, has been visiting Mrs. Mattie Carter, our accomplished school teacher. Mr. Sam Harg, of Ohio, is spending a few weeks with his cousin, J. W. Moore. Mr. J. T. Brown, of Pulaski, was in town Saturday. Bro. A. E. Butler has just returned from Richmond, where he has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. H. L. Tharp.

—Our Masonic installation and supper at the Masonic Hall was a great success. The crowd was just large enough and small enough to be enjoyable and pleasant. Everything passed off nicely and all who were present seemed to enjoy themselves. The first thing on the program was the public installation of officers. "Benefit of the Order" was the subject of interesting and timely talks by Bros. G. W. Tharp and R. S. Martin and the writer closed with his little say. Then a grand banquet was enjoyed, in which almost every one present took a part. We wish to say to Miss Perie Newland and Miss Lizzie Heron that we return the thanks of the Masonic brotherhood to them for the graceful manner in which they waited on and served the guests. We do not think that Brodhead could very well part with those two young ladies.

HUBBLE.

—Ben Owsley has hired to Jim Green to work in the shop here.

—J. Harlan lost a fine 1,500 pound steer by a straw stack falling in on him in the storm Sunday night.

—C. P. Underwood sold some shoats to J. Harlan at 3¢ and G. P. Bright sold some to Gentry Bros. at same price.

—Owsley Carman has started to school at Danville. J. O. Eubanks has gone to Illinois to dispose of some horse and jack stock which he has there.

—Aaron Ball and Sire Ross, a colored man who lives on his place, got into a quarrel over Ross refusing to help him work last Tuesday. The lie was passed a time or two, when Aaron ran into him and cut him one stroke with his knife in the back and then ran off. No hurt was done to amount to anything, as Ross will soon be all right. All happened at Ross'.

The direct line to all points in Eastern, Middle, Northern and Western Wisconsin, Ashland, Duluth and all Lake Superior points. Double daily through train service with first-class equipment. For full particulars address any ticket agent in the United States or J. C. Pond, general passenger agent, Milwaukee, Wis.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 129 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such a result of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at A. R. Penny's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.

Bucklin's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions. It positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. R. Penny, Stanford, Ky.

For rheumatism I have found nothing equal to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It relieves the pain as soon as applied. J. W. Young, West Liberty, W. Va. "I have found it affords the most worth many times the cost, 30 cents. Its continued use will effect a permanent cure." For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, druggist, Stanford.

"Happy Jack" Saves Postage by Addressing his Friends in a Lump

PORT STANLEY, FAULKLAND ISLANDS, Nov. 9, 1894.

To Messrs. W. H. Miller, John M. Reid, A. K. Denny, Squire Carson, Tom and Will Bohon, H. C. Jennings, W. O. Bradley, one of the Fox boys and such of my personal friends as will excuse me for addressing them through the "Interior Journal."

MY DEAR FRIENDS: We left New York on the 5th of August and I arrived here on the 29th of September all O. K. What you don't see while on the ocean is what you think about most and you have no idea how much thought it gives until you try it. The first thing, attractive to thought, is the immense pathway of old ocean, where you go for days without seeing anything except the ocean and the ship you are on. Some day, after you have been out of sight of land for two or three weeks perhaps, "A sail!" is heard from some one, and miles away is another ship in view that is just as much interested in your ship. You think of the immense produce of your country, of which so small a portion produces anything to-day, and you find that the produce of your country is only a single cargo, when compared with the produce of the world, and the produce of the world to-day; only a single cargo to what it will be when it is all utilized as is its destiny, and then when earth gets down to her level heat and yields a full crop, still old ocean's pathway will be uncrowded. While on land you are never out of hearing of trains of produce dashing through the land, night and day, through sunshine and storm, assisted often by extra trains, and yet they get so far behind with their work, that an annual increase of production keeps them still behind, although steam boats and rafts fill our rivers, giving aid to this interchange of commerce. In the face of all this, you see not only the greater portion of our own great country, but the greater portion of all earth's surface unpopulated and in idleness. You see the world in its infancy as it were, you see the tendency to interchange products, the tendency to go forward, the tendency for the different divisions of the whole world to get closer together and become neighborly, you see the sun begin to shine and the day dawn, when every man shall "be under his own vine and fig tree." You see the unpopulated parts of the world open into lovely homes for the miserable dens of our enlightened—our civilized—our Christian countries—where religion and brotherly love abound so—so—well they don't abound—and you ask: "Who needs the missionary, New York and London or Zululand and China? Who needs the missionary, the Christian or the Heathen? Mother earth is young enough—healthy enough—affectionate enough—from her generous bosom flows the milk of love and life, that will some day feed many times over the number of children she has to day; and she is not going to quit having them. She is not one of your fashionable society ladies, that is afraid of a big family; she needs no wet nurse or nipped bottles for her young; she has a lap for them all, never has gone dry nor does she anticipate a change of life.

This is a partial outline of thought, that the things you don't see, suggest when out at ocean and out of sight, and they pour in upon you, until I will declare to goodness you can see meat and bread and wine and honey and clothes and shelter and hope and love and joy for the starving and naked everywhere. You see almost all North and South America, together with the vast and fertile plains of Africa uncultivated and unpeopled, and the tendency of railroads and telegraphs to go there and surety this is an eye opener to the homeless and home seeker of the world. There is a good time coming. "Let her go Gallagher," Archie.

Last night, 53 years ago, Mrs. Guelph, alias Queen Victoria, discovered that she was going to have a baby and about midnight she waked up Mr. Guelph and told him to go for the mid-wife-quick. Mr. Guelph, like most Dutchmen, was good to his wife in a pinch like that, and he went without another word. He knew the little fellow had been aboard "The Ship of State" for about nine months and it wouldn't do for him not to have a safe landing, so he just stepped down street through the hardest kind of a rain and knocked at granny's door and asked her to get up and go home with him. Granny was posted and had nothing to do, but to slip on her top dress and water proof, and she slid into them like greased lightning, stepped out the front door, took Mr. Guelph's arm and was at the bedside of the Queen in a little less than no time. Next morning the arrival of "Little Guelph, alias 'The Prince of Wales'" was announced. This morning at Stanley, 8,000 miles from the Prince and everybody else except us of the Falklands, without his knowledge or consent, or malice aforethought upon my part, I as representative of the fairest and freest land the sun has ever yet shone bright on, have hoisted the "star spangled banner, and long may it wave," to congratulate Mrs. Guelph, Mr. Guelph, Sr., Mr. Guelph, Jr., and granny.

Her majesty has generously dispensed with "State birthday congratulations" for other members of her numerous family. Through some misfortune they are incapacitated to take care of themselves. She is therefore placed under the painful necessity of calling on her country for an annuity of about a $100,000,000 to keep them from suffering, and is inclined to think that her folks might get fatigued and consider her greedy if so many congratulations should be added to their taxes. The widow Guelph certainly holds due drawing numbers in "The Life Lottery." Every number draws a prize every time. Her family equals in helplessness, if not in numbers, "The Grand Army of the Republic" that fills up the "dependent list" of "the best government the world ever saw," and are just as hard to kill. I write this to show you that there are other poor and helpless people in the world besides our own. Are Andy Carnegie and Claus Spreckles as poor and dependent as they used to be?

Yes, Archie, John saw lots of sights in Patmos. If I should make such discoveries here and had no better sense than to tell of them, all of my friends would pronounce me "Jim Jammy" at once and a fit subject for the "Keeley Cure," and would regret that I had escaped the caldron of boiling oil in which he took a hot bath and came out without raising a sweat, much less a blister. Good people make a great many allowances for John of Patmos that they are not going to make for me. Dometian had him in the mines for about 12 months and he—"saw stars," while there and if I should pick up as much curious information in a life time as he did in that time about astrology and mineralogy and horned and cloven footed beasts and serpents and snakes, and all kinds of things that creep about night and day on the ground and under the ground, together with those "birds of the air" with wings as big as ship sails and claws as powerful as a cow-catcher to a freight train, my effusion wouldn't be read once, much less translated into all languages and read and believed by all people for all time.

There is a big difference in the same story told by different gentlemen. I should be regarded as something of a liar if I should tell any such singular tales, but it is true that we have neither snakes, frogs, gray backs, house flies, mosquitoes, bed bugs or fleas here, and as for stars—the clouds spread themselves so wide and thick and constantly, that the people have only a vague idea of the "Milky Way" and "Southern Cross" and I believe we new comers have told them of "Job's coffin."

John of Patmos had a better observatory and clearer sky and more resources for natural history than anyone else has ever had. His researches unfolded many wonders, that no one else ever saw before, couldn't see then and haven't seen since. This son of Zibedee would be a rare genius in any country even now. I don't know how much quinine it would take to make me see as many sights; but quinine is a great "eye opener" and don't you forget it.

Hang your cap on a bed post and you will think you are in a large hat store, while Squire Carson's monkey on a trapeze pole would turn to a whole menagerie. Mind you I don't say Dr. Luke went over to Patmos on a professional visit to John. All of you write to me.

Good-Bye, J. H. MILLER.

LANCASTER, CARRARD COUNTY.

—Richard McRoberts, alias Richard Doty, a colored soldier, died at his home in Lancaster at about 11 A. M., to-day.

—W. B. Mason, clerk, Sam Rothwell, D. M. Lackey and others from this place, attended the funeral of Col. J. K. Faulkner, at Paint Lick, on the 9th inst. The remains of Robert Hiatt, son of the late Hiram Hiatt, killed by the train at Lexington, reached this place and were interred in the cemetery at 4 P. M. on Wednesday, the 9th. He was a bright and worthy young man.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Smith are visiting his father's family. Mr. Carpenter Stewart has gone to Gray Station, where he accepted a position. Miss Florence Harris is visiting in Louisville. Mr. Sam Salter and wife, of Lexington, are visiting relatives here. Mr. William Ro-mans is in Lexington on business. Miss Lizzie Jennings is the guest of Mrs. Hattie Romans. Mrs. Kate Waita is visiting her brother in Harrison county. Miss Bettie Doores has been quite sick, but is improving.

—The "Comicalities and Whimsicalities of Garrard county people," by Col. Oscar F. Tillett, of this place, has been read by the people here with considerable interest, as the author is one of the oldest and best posted citizens of Lancaster. In many instances he hits the nail on the head, though like a dictionary he is somewhat scattering in the presentation of his subjects and the personages mentioned. But therein lies his greatest forte—the power of jumping from one theme to another with agility and without being thrown from his horse. If he had lived in the days of Don Quixote, he would have made a veritable Sancho-Panza; or if in the days of Robert Burns would have laid "Tam O'Shanter" completely in the shade, for he would undoubtedly have been

"Glorious,
O'er all the ills of life victorious."

IN MEMORIAM

—The news of Mrs. Allie Baughman's death, although not unexpected, spread an unusual gloom over the hearts of her many friends, because of her prominence in this community as a pious, Godly woman. The rare excellence of her Christian character, the singular affection, esteem and confidence in which she was held gave to her an influence that will live for years after she is gone. In the present imperfect condition of human nature, truth almost continually forbids us to give vent to feelings of admiration and love, and compels us to dis- pense our praise with a great deal of restraint and measured liberality. But what a pleasure to meet a character whose blamelessness spares us the pain of making deductions from its virtues. And our satisfaction is greatly increased in the present case because we can give utterance to our affection and esteem with the confidence of finding sympathy and full approval in the hearts of the many friends who knew her so well.

She was in the 49th year of her age, having survived her husband, Mr. Henry Baughman, 7 years, being left with the care of five children, whom she trained in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. They are all Christians, following in the footsteps of father and mother. They remember with much delight her assurances of Christian hope and her expressions of religious emotions during her illness; but a higher consolation than a dying testimony is left them, even the memory of a blameless and well spent life. But she has gone home to rest by the still waters. It would seem that after so useful a life God would allow her to pass away easily and painlessly. But not so. Fifteen weeks of pain and suffering must be endured. Nearly a half century in preparing this gem for heaven in a life of service and Christian fortitude. But this will not suffice. It is too rich and rare a gem not to be perfect; and so there must be a few more cuttings of the chisel and a few more raspings of the file and it will be a jewel fit for eternity. At high noon Monday, January 7th, the work was finished, the jewel polished, and she has gone. Death! Oh, no. "There is no death! What seems so is transition." She walked along the heavenly heights, communing with the Infinite, on toward the glorious sunset, until the crimson gates rolled back, and she passed in and continues to walk with God. She lives to-day and standing on the battlements of heaven, with a triumphant shout she calls to her loved ones to be comforted. She has left them, but not until she had instilled into the minds of her children that love which to shine as the noonday sun needs only to be associated with the holy name of mother. To have had such a mother is honor enough for any family. Her memory is a joy and an inspiration. Father and mother are united again and they are waiting for the children—waiting at the foot of the throne, under the tree of life, until that day when they shall be reunited, a happy band, around the throne of God, and this grief will be swallowed up in the joy of that Heavenly meeting.

—A Concordia (Kan.) youth darkened his mustache with black pomade and took his girl out for a moonlight stroll. When the fair one appeared a couple of hours later her face looked like a coal miner's.

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. R. Maffett, of Plainville, N. J. His little boy five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he is up and well again. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it."

25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, druggist, Stanford.

Mr. Ira P. Wetmore, a prominent real estate man, San Angelo, Texas, has used Chamberlain's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for several years on occasion required, and always with perfect success. He says: "I find it a perfect cure for our baby when troubled with colic or dysentery. I now feel that my outfit is not complete without a bottle of this remedy at home or on a trip away from home." For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, druggist, Stanford.

There does not at present appear to be any hope for the democracy. Party pledges never sat as lightly on the people, nor were they ever so greatly ignored by the politicians. Nominations are no longer equivalent to elections, even in the strongest democratic districts, and democratic caucuses at Washington fail of their purpose and bind nobody who does not care to be bound. The caucus of the House democrats called to consider the Carlisle currency bill was a flash in the pan. Many members refused to attend and those present failed to accomplish anything, and a vote in the House to adopt the cloture at a certain time was defeated 129 to 124. This is considered a test vote and shows that the Carlisle bill is done for and that no currency legislation will be had this session. If by any sort of chance the House would adopt the bill the Senate would select it, and here we go straight to the dismission bowwows. The democratic leaders haven't proven equal to the occasion and the people, not without reason, are coming to the conclusion that they are not capable of running the government. The outlook is most unpromising and the prospect is that unless the party pulls itself together and does something worthy of its great name and for the good of the entire country, it will again be turned out to grass for 25 years. Oh for a Moses to lead us out of the wilderness and for a dispensation of Providence that will help us out of the slough of despond!

The death of Col. John K. Faulkner at Richmond Monday night removes from the sphere of honorable existence a fine gentleman and honest republican. A wound received in battle for the Union has given him much trouble of late and it was greatly irritated recently by a fall from the cars at Lawrenceburg. It gave him excruciating pain at times and forced him to use anesthetics freely. When we first knew him he was circuit clerk of Garrard, having defeated the noted Eb Kennedy. Afterwards he served a term as surveyor of the port of Louisville, with much credit, and added largely to his long list of friends. His wife, who was a Miss Bell, died a number of years ago, but he never remarried. Two daughters and a son survive him. Col. Faulkner was a brave man, a true friend and a magnanimous foe, and leaves a name untarnished by even a breath of suspicion.

Gov. Brown in words that burn review the action and remarks of Judge Bachwalter, of Ohio, in refusing to let a negro prisoner be brought from his State on a requisition, and reads him a scathing lecture on law and good manners. He charges him with usurpation, prevarication and the subordination of the commands of the law to his own caprices. His decision is without precedent and his act is a proclamation of welcome and protection to all law breakers and murderers, who choose to seek refuge for their crimes in the Buckeye State. Judge Bachwalter no doubt enjoys the notoriety he has gotten by reason of his decision, but after getting Gov. Brown's dressing down, he will feel like the boy that the calf ran over and be left with nothing to say.

OWENS' answer to Denny's notice of contest is a deadener and he is following it up with proof to sustain it, but it will be labor lost. The next Congress would take time to decide a contest on its merits. The republican will be seated no matter how good a case the democrat presents. Denny knows this as he also knows he was not elected, and that's what gives him the gall and confidence to make the contest.

The Tennessee democrats die hard, but the prospect of a contest for the governorship grows smaller by degrees. The best time to contest is before the election, and if you get beat then, it is best to swallow your medicine. Evans, republican, is elected on the face of the returns and the democrats had just as well make a virtue of necessity and raise no further objections to his inauguration.

This good news comes from Washington that the bill to divide Kentucky into two Federal court districts may fall through a division in the Kentucky delegation. We hope so. There is no need of another district, except to increase the great army of people who are living off of the government, and to reward some old party hacks, who must be supported.

The ghost of the Breckinridge race last summer, like Banquo's, will not be down. W. N. Lane and Judge G. B. Klacaid met in the Phoenix Hotel at Lexington, Wednesday night and the old quarrel was resumed, a tragedy being only prevented by the promptness of friends.

Like the man who said that the horse was 17 feet high and stuck to it, Mr. Watterson, who opposed the nomination of Cleveland, still sticks to it that he is the cause of all the ills that democracy is heir to. The great editor is another living evidence of the pride of "I told you so."

A Louisville tobacco warehouse holds 7,000 hogheads.

AND now Caruth is "mentioned" for U. S. Senator. The woodcock is kept busy these troublous times making the only remark ever attributed to him, and he must have put additional emphasis to his "Great God" this time as he flew away out of sight.

Jackson Day was generally observed. At Philadelphia Congressman William L. Wilson, Congressman McMillin and Senator White, of California, were the principal speakers. At Omaha, ex Gov. Boies, of Iowa, spoke on the "The Issues of 1896." At Indianapolis there was a magnificent demonstration.

Charles Thomas, night watchman at the Kentucky Central depot, in Paris, shot and killed a negro man named Garrett Martin. Martin was stealing coal from a car and when Thomas ordered him off the negro threatened to kill him. Thomas then fired at him. The ball struck him in the heart, and passing through the body killed him instantly.

The government has let the contract for raising the British frigate Hussar, which struck a rock and foundered off Fort Norris, or Stony Point, in East River, New York, during the revolutionary war. She was supposed to have on board $4,800,000 of British gold sent over to pay the British troops. The contractor is to get 90 percent of treasure.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

Jack Chinn leads the winning owners at San Francisco, having won $11,460.

G. C. Baker bought of J. M. Martin seven steers and heifers at $12 to $13.50.

W. H. Traylor bought of B. W. Gaines 30 hogs, of 100 pounds average at $3.

G. & C. P. Cecil have consigned 50 head of high class trotters to Beary's sale in Chicago this month.—Advocate.

J. H. Dunn has bought in the last few days several good milk cows at $27 to $40. He will use them in his dairy at Danville.

W. R. Bayless, of Crawfordsville, Ind., bought of M. S. Baughman, P. W. Green and others 24 Jersey heifers and cows at $15 to $30.

W. B. Kidd, shipped to Baltimore for Lehman Bros., 19 cattle purchased from S. D. Goff, weighing 1,530 lbs., which cost $4.70. They were an extra fine lot and all deboned.—Winchester Democrat.

Auctioneer Prewitt reports the duller January count ever known in Richmond. About 300 cattle on the market. The best brought 3 cents. Lower grade 2 1/2 cents. A few horses sold for $18 to $71. Mules sold from $25 to $40.—Pantagraph.

J. F. Hall, of Danvers, Ill., sold recently on the Chicago market Shorthorns for $6.45 per 100 pounds. The steers averaged $109.85 cents each. They were purchased in the spring at a little over 1,200 pounds and sold at 1,702 pounds.

T. C. Anglin lost by lightning on his farm in Fayette Sunday night, Mambrino May, by Mambrino Patchen, dam by Onward, a bay mare by Electioneer, and Annie Almont, by Almont, dam by Mambrino Patchen. All were with foal to Wilkes Boy. Loss about $3,000.

OF A LOCAL NATURE.

The Cincinnati Southern road has an made important addition to its passenger equipment, in the shape of two handsome new dining cars, which are now running.

Robert Hyatt, a telegraph operator of Versailles, was run over and killed by a passenger train on the Louisville Southern at Lexington. He was formerly of Garrard.

J. C. Kean, a brakeman on the Cincinnati Southern road, was knocked off of his train by a bridge last night and killed. He lived in Lexington. His wife's first husband was also a railroader and was killed in an accident.

Miss Gertrude VanEman, a pupil at Western Female Seminary, Oxford, O., at which there are a number of pupils from this section, in order to dry her hair which she had just washed, sat with her back to the fire. Her dress caught and she was burned to death before assistance arrived.

At Salvisa, Mercer county, Sunday night, in a fight between Sylvester and Seymour Jordan on one side and Will Wright and Jim Cosby on the other, Seymour Jordan's throat was cut from ear to ear and Sylvester Jordan was shot in the neck, probably fatally. The Jordans have been terrors in that end of Mercer county for years. Derwood Jordan, another brother, is now serving a term in the penitentiary.

Si Plunkard.—The performance of "Si Plunkard" at the opera house on Monday night drew a good house and gave the best of satisfaction. Mr. Lewis is certainly a successful manager and knows how to please the people. He carries a splendid band and their unique parade is very laughable, a sure cure for the blues. There is just enough plot in the performance to interest the audience, while the specialties are the best and bring out the talent of the performers. The Jew, Old Si, and the Dutchman "caught on in great shape" and were loudly applauded. Mrs. Lewis, as Dora, was charming, and her singing and dancing was clever. As a whole the show is one that has something in it to please everybody who enjoys a good laugh.—Detroit (Mich.) Free Press. At Walton's Opera House, Tuesday Jan. 15.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

Rev. T. J. Godbey's meeting at the LaGrange Methodist church resulted in 29 additions.

Rev. F. S. Pollitt, formerly pastor of the Methodist church here, has had to retire from the charge at Frankfort owing to ill health.

Rev. Mr. Helm will preach at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and Rev. S. M. Logan will preach at Rowland that night at 7 o'clock.

Dr. Talmage is said to receive $500 for a lecture and sometimes $1,000. He makes more money out of his lectures than any other man on the platform.

"Are the sacred Scriptures a sufficient revelation from God, or need we other revelations?" will be the subject of Elder W. E. Ellis' discourse Sunday morning.

Please say in your next paper I will preach a sermon, at Hustonville, next Sunday, the 13th inst., on the Bible doctrine of Sanctification, D. V. Any text of Scripture furnished me before hand will be duly considered. W. L. Williams.

HUSTONVILLE.

Found last Sunday, on the streets, a pocket-book. Anyone calling on George Goode and describing same and its contents may receive it.

Hustonville has a shoemaker and all who have been complaining of the lack of one may give him a call. We have never yet called for anything through the L. J. and failed to get it.

Mr. W. O. Speed, of Somerset, will run the Weatherford House barroom from now on. Miss Lucile, the pretty little daughter of Geo. B. Cooper, is visiting here. Miss Maggie Ingles, the pretty elocutionist and actress, is visiting Miss Lou Hocker. Mrs. George C. Goode has returned from a visit to her parents, Hon. Harvey Helm was up Monday night giving the town board a send off for the ensuing year. Mr. W. H. Miller is the attorney for the town, but could not be present. Misses Mattie and Katherine Alcorn have returned to Oxford, after spending their lengthy holiday at home.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Mrs. M. E. Lord, of Louisville, is visiting at Mr. H. T. Harris'.

Miss FREDA MILES, of Lexington, is the guest of Mrs. William Rice.

MR. AND MRS. W. L. DUDDERAR are visiting relatives in Cincinnati.

Squire J. S. MURPHY has taken rooms in the Craig house, leased by Dr. J. H. Ballou.

The wretched weather prevents people from perambulating and produces a paucity of persons.

ELDER JOSEPH BALLOU is very ill and his physicians say the symptoms are favorable for pneumonia.

Mrs. MARY W. BOWMAN and Miss Virginia Bowman came up from Danville yesterday to visit Mrs. Forestus Reid.

MR. E. F. ROHR has moved his family from Mr. John Engleman's on Cemetery hill, to Mrs. Nevise's cottage on Lancaster street.

MR. W. E. THARP, owing to failing health, has quit railroad and gone to farming on Green River, where will go largely into raising tobacco.

Messrs. W. H. COOK and W. F. Henry, of Garrard, took the train here for Louisville, Tuesday, where they went to sell their tobacco crops.

MR. NEAL AINSWORTH, agent courier of the St. Plunkard Co., was here yesterday, and left unmistakable evidence of the coming of his show next Tuesday, 15th.

A RELATIVE of Miss Louis Tipton, formerly of the Stanford College faculty, was elected speaker of the Tennessee House of Representatives, the Hon. John A. Tipton, of Tipton county.

MR. GEORGE W. DUNN, of the Danville Advocate, is demonstrating the possession of the divine afflatus to a remarkable extent. His recent effort entitled the "Old Hanging Fork," is an unusually sweet little poem.

Mrs. ADELE CUNNINGHAM, Will S. R. O., J. W. and J. P. Cunningham and E. Weasner, composing the Cunningham Quintette, are registered at the Myers House and were to give one of their charming entertainments last night at the Opera House.

HON. W. O. HANFORD, wife and Mr. W. B. Hanford left Crab Orchard yesterday for Manchester, where they will make their home in the future. They regard it as a fine location for the practice of their profession, the law, and their friends, who regret their departure, hope that they will strike it rich.

W. T. SAUNDERS found a purse the other day with a sum of money in it, which the owner can get by calling at this office, proving property and paying charges.

WHEN you come to town to court Monday, make it your first business to call at this office or pay the business manager on the street for your paper. Aid us that much in getting on a cash basis.

JOHN R. CLARKE, who will lecture for us next Monday night, is no experiment. He has been on the platform 20 years and is said to be the peer of John B. Gough. A large audience ought to greet him.

BESIDES a most laughable performance in itself, the St. Plunkard show is replete with specialties. Dancing, singing, a dog fight and many novelties are promised, and 2½ hours of solid fun is assured. Remember the date, Jan. 15.

THERE was no change in the directory of the Farmers Bank and Trust Co., at the election last Tuesday, the list being as appears on our fourth page. In the First National, Mr. J. H. Collier, of Crab Orchard, was chosen in place of Hon. G. A. Lackey and the other former members elected.

DISTILLERY.—Mr. W. H. Traylor started up his distillery yesterday and will mash 100 bushels of grain a day. He has 100 cattle, 1,020 pounds average, which cost him $2.85 and 100 hogs, of about 100 pounds, which cost $3, to eat the slop. Judge Stephen Burch will be on hand to protect the interests of the government.

NELSON county nearly supports the Crab Orchard Springs Keeley Cure. It has sent 67 patients, 55 of whom were from Bardstown. The Belle of Nelson must be a brand peculiarly adapted to doing its deadly work. Of the 67 we are told only one man has ever taken a drink since his "graduation" and he got on but one spree.

THE Stanford Water, Light and Ice Company made its usual dividend of 3½ or 1 per cent, but the directors will not order its payment until the stockholders vote on whether the amount, or as much of it as may be necessary, shall be expended in boring for gas, which experts say can be found in paying quantities at 1,500 feet.

CATHERINE, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forestus Reid, met with an accident the other day that may cause the loss of one of her eyes. She was holding a shoe-buttoner in her hand and while playing, fell, the buttoner piercing the corner of one of her eyes nearly an inch and making an ugly wound. The ball is not damaged greatly, but the doctors fear that the discharge caused by the wound may disease the pupil.

Tax examining trial of Sheriff Van Arsdale, of Mercer, was called Tuesday, but continued until to-day. The new county judge declined to sit in the case and Squire Neal will conduct it. Excitement is running high and when the Squire refused to let the prisoner be guarded longer and ordered him to jail, there was a burst of applause. Neal admonished the crowd that a repetition of such would cause the court room to be cleared. Col. Gaither for the defense, said: "Yes, especially so when the applanse is led by a man who has twice been tried for his life and ought to have been hanged." A number of prominent lawyers are engaged in the case.

SUICIDE.—Col. John K. Faulkner committed suicide at Richmond Monday night by taking poison. He had been suffering greatly from a wound received in the war and twice lately had suffered paralytic attacks. A note was found in his room held together by a handkerchief that a lady had given him Christmas and which he asked to be returned to her, saying he felt that death was but a question of a short time and that he would hasten it by taking the poison. The drug had done its deadly work before his condition was discovered, and although the doctors pumped everything out of his stomach and used electric batteries and every other contrivance to revive him, their efforts were in vain.

THE penetrating effect of an East wind is felt in the mind and body. It searches for every weak spot in the latter and produces a most depressing effect on the former. It is said that more people commit suicide when an East wind prevails than at any other time and certain it is that those who do not take their lives are rendered capable of treasuries, strategems, spoils and murder. The mercury was scarce below the freezing point Wednesday, but the East wind made many people exclaim that it was the coldest day of the year. In the 15th chapter of Job and 2d verse, Eliphaz the Temanite speaks of this wind as a most unprofitable diet and all the generations since have agreed with the miserable comforter on that point if no other.

Your account for 1894 is ready, please call and settle. W. B. McRoberts.

FOR RENT.—Cottage with 5 rooms in Crab Orchard. Apply to the postmaster there.

PLEASE call and settle your account. I need the money to run my business. M. F. Elkin.

WITH the new year, those sterling Danville merchants, A. B. Robertson & Bro., cut and come again to tell our readers how low they are selling goods. Read their ad on this page. It may prove money to you.

THE supervisors completed their work at noon yesterday. The raise amounted to $36,013 and the decrease $500, leaving an increase of $35,513 on the assessor. Friday and Saturday of next week are the days set apart to hear complaints.

TO DELINQUENT TAX PAYERS.—My time of office expired yesterday and I shall advertise all tax payers, who have failed to settle at once. My deputies are now at work making out the lists. Settle and save cost of advertising. J. N. Mcneffer, S. L. C.

THE Old Fellows' Hall Association held a meeting this week and declared a dividend of 12½ per cent. on the old Commercial Hotel building, we learn from Secretary A. C. Sine. An offer to buy the property met with the response that it was not for sale.

DISAPPOINTED LOVERS.—James Turner and a Miss Ferrill, an eloping couple from Garrard county, drove over yesterday to be joined heart and hand, but as the lady was only 18 and had no "permit," County Clerk J. F. Cummins refused the license. They left here for Danville with the hope of securing the "necessary papers" there.

THE press and people speak in unqualified terms of praise of John R. Clarke, who is to lecture here Monday night, 14th. One paper says: "He takes his audience into his confidence from the start and holds them spellbound to the end, running up and down the scale of their emotions from tears to uncontrollable laughter. He is a prince of entertainers."

AN ORDER.—On motion it was ordered that the manager, if water and light rates are not paid by customers when due, shall give defaulting customers 20 days' notice of the Company's intention to shut off the water or light supply and if all arrears are not paid before the expiration of 20 days' notice, he is directed to shut off such customers. J. W. Hayden, Manager.

THE weather like the times seem to have gotten out of joint and not able to resume its equilibrium. Tuesday morning saw the ground covered with snow again. Wednesday it hailed and sleeted and yesterday it rained and got sicker till it was almost impossible to walk. Hicks' predictions are being fulfilled with a vengeance and increasing the confidence that certain people hold in his infallibility. Let all pray for a safe deliverance and a return of brighter days.

There is a slight bow of promise in this received from Washington yesterday: "To Walton, Stanford:—Rain or snow to-day. Fair, warmer Friday. Harrington."

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—On the 10th George W. Curtis and Miss Lola Jones were married at Mr. S. K. Jones'.

—Thomas L. Morgan, a widower of 48, and Miss Nancy J. Blankenship, a maiden of 32, were made one Wednesday.

—Jacob and Sarah Miller, of Huron county, Mich., are each over 100 years of age and in good health. They were married in 1814.

—A North Carolina judge recently granted a divorce to a couple, and two weeks thereafter married the divorced wife, who had considerable property.

—Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt, who made her debut Wednesday afternoon, received 148 bouquets, valued at about $25,000.

—Miss Fannie Marshall, of Rockville Ind., had a quarrel over a trivial affair with her lover and ended the whole business by taking enough morphine to kill her.

—Mrs. Sarah A. Lewis, of Bardstown, yesterday filed suit for $25,000 damages for breach of promise against Dr. A. M. Shields, formerly of Louisville, but now a resident of Bardstown.

—On being told by her father that he could not see his daughter any more, Charles Haefflin, a love lorn youth, stood beneath her window and blew his poor little brains out in New York.

—Daniel White, a young farmer near Lebanon, Ind., was arrested on charge of larceny. Only a month before he had married the daughter of a well-to-do neighbor, and his wife committed suicide by taking chloroform, on learning of his disgrace.

—The local paper says that William Cox, a citizen of Monticello, ate his New Year's dinner around a board at which sat three of his wives, and he is only 38 years of age. This, at first glance, appears to be an astounding condition of affairs, but it is easily explained. His first wife was Miss Minerva Smith, who bore him nine children and was afterward divorced. Mr. Cox then married Miss Julia Stevens, from which no children resulted, and he was soon divorced from her. He then wedded his present spouse, a Tennessee lady, and seven children have blessed their home. On New Year's day Mr. Cox spread a banquet at his house and invited his two former helpmates to celebrate with him. They gladly responded, and the day passed without a ripple of dissatisfaction or unpleasantness to mar the occasion. The matrimonial hero was first married at the age of 14. Three wives and 16 children at 38 is a record to be proud of.

—The marriage of Miss Margaret, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Lewis, to Mr. J. C. West on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, was one of those joyous events which come to be glad memories to those who witness them. It was the happy ending of several years of lovehood. It gladdens the weary world to see fond young hopes realized. The pleasant parlor was darkened and artificially lighted. The bride wore a charming dress of cream crepon with emilax and violets. The bridesmaids were similarly attired. The attendants were Stella and Basil Lewis, little sister and brother of the bride, and Miss Sallie Ray and Mr. Jesse Saunders. The ceremony was performed by Elder George Gowan, of Lancaster, and was beautiful and impressive. Miss Belle Cash at the organ rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march. Miss Margaret is a handsome, cultured woman, who will grace her new home. Mr. West is a prosperous young farmer of Garrard county and their future promises indeed to be bright. Their friends hope that it may be so and that no rough awakening may ever come to disturb their dream of bliss. The happy couple were the recipients of many useful and ornamental presents. After receiving the congratulations of friends, the bridal party left in a carriage for the home of the bridegroom, where a reception was tendered them that evening. N.
